

4 Courses

Writing and Editing: Word
Choice and Word Order

Writing and Editing:
Structure and Organization

Writing and Editing: Drafting

Writing and Editing: Revising

Apr 28, 2021

Arianne Regi Murphy

has successfully completed the online, non-credit Specialization

Good with Words: Writing and Editing

Perhaps the most important thing students and professionals of all kinds can do to improve their effectiveness is embrace the following advice: become good with words. This series of courses targeted the writing side of that recommendation. The skills it focused on included (1) how to arrange a complex set of information in a reader-friendly way (2) how to use compelling details to make a point (3) how to punctuate and paragraph like a professional (4) how to add nuance to sentences and slogans (5) how to manage short-term and long-term projects (6) how to give and receive high-quality feedback.

Patrick J. Barry, Clinical Assistant Professor of Law, University of Michigan Law School

The online specialization named in this certificate may draw on material from courses taught on-campus, but the included courses are not equivalent to on-campus courses. Participation in this online specialization does not constitute enrollment at this university. This certificate does not confer a University grade, course credit or degree, and it does not verify the identity of the learner.

Verify this certificate at:

<https://coursera.org/verify/specialization/L9XXM9N4KS88>